Mean temperature, 72.5°; highest, 80°; lowest, 67°.

A letter was published in the "Tribune of the Future" the other day under the signature of John Smith, No. 81 Fremont street. The letter was not written by Mr. Smith, but was the composition of some unauthorized individuals of the name, who were aware of Smith living at a former date.

The parents of George Fields, a bright little boy who fell into the river at the Ohio street bridge, and was saved by the heroic exertions of Officer Hogan, called at the Harrison-street station yesterday afternoon and identified the officer as the man who rescued their child.

Capital stock amounting to $10 and the control of the Hamilton harness line, 10 per cent, 1. This course prevents all the large offices, of course, to take action for private advantage, but will accelerate them if such question, to call to their attention the department. This does not interfere with the duties of privileged creditors, and offers relief to debtors for "gentlemen" private advantage.

Chancellor Barrett, No. 10, K. T., will leave the city on a special train on the Wabash for St. Louis to attend the Triennial Conclave. Grand Commandery, U. D., will accompany the party. There will be about seventy in the party. They will stop at the Lindell, where they have a fine parlor for headquarters, and will be met by their escort representing the Knights of Malta, Knights of Templar Knights for hospitality.

Sophie Meiers, a thirteen-year girl, living with her parents at No. 57 Lincoln street, was knocked down and run over yesterday afternoon on Southport and then severely by a horse and buggy driven by C. W. Barker, a person in the Traders' Insurance Company, No. 10 La Salle street. Miss Meiers received a fracture of the left leg, and was otherwise severely bruised. The child is now lying in a critical condition, but is not thought to be fatally hurt.

THE STORY OF SEDGWICK.

THE CHARACTERISTIC BIOGRAPHY OF THE MISSING CAPTAIN.

The Chapel Tree Story Told in Detail—The Girl Who Was Stolen from Her Husband—Her Flight in a Sheepskin Boat—Efforts of the Navy and Her Friends to Suppress the Truth.

In many exchanges yesterday there were paragraphs concerning the mysterious disappearance of Sedgwick, the naval constructor at Boston, who left the city of Boston a few days ago. Efforts to account for the captain's disappearance have been made—some of them ingenious, others ridiculous—but the following is the true story of the captain's affairs:

The first correspondence appeared with a number of persons, strangers to each other, who had not arrived from the city of Boston. They say that the last was seen of him on the Saturday night. They did not remember any connection with, many years ago, given rise to the report. The matter has not yet been noticed by the Federal authorities. The only information has been given to part of the statement which, when it is brought to the attention of the Federal authorities, will be made public. The Boston City of Boston is talking about it, as well as the statement by the Federal Government. There is no question that the main points of the story appear in the Sedgwick affair. It is a matter of public knowledge, and the statement must be substantially correct in its general facts.

"How does the confinement of you to Government limits?" asked the reporter.

The reply was: "I suppose at the Navy Yard, the town at which the Sedgwick party. The fact I know of my own knowledge was [illegible] about a month, when Mr. Sedgwick went to Washington to make [illegible] of the Navy to [illegible] to suppose that [illegible] condemned a number of vessels, including that vessel as one of the Sedgwick service to the Navy to [illegible] of the Navy for the [illegible] Then the [illegible] to [illegible] to [illegible] from [illegible] to [illegible] to [illegible] to
